

Healthcare Career Pathways for English Language Learners

The United States is facing multiple crises when it comes to healthcare infrastructure.

WORKER PIPELINE

The country's healthcare worker pipeline is simply not sufficient to take care of our rapidly aging population. More allied healthcare workers are vital to the future care of the country.

EMPLOYEE BURNOUT

Thirty percent of healthcare workers currently in the profession have considered leaving. The COVID-19 pandemic and the toll on healthcare workers is exacerbating burnout in this field.

LACK OF TRAINING

Existing healthcare infrastructure does not support speakers of other languages. Many upskilling and career pathway resources are available to allied healthcare workers, but have language requirements that block many from participating.

THE SOLUTION

EnGen is a solution that addresses all of these challenges at once. We provide easy-to-use technology that upskills language learners for the jobs of the future. We partner with organizations to provide and/or create highly specific and effective language learning curriculum that will empower speakers of other languages with the skills they need to thrive and advance in their career field.

Here is an example of how EnGen's curricula creates a pathway for speakers of other languages working in the allied healthcare field.
